

Charity "on the ground" in South Africa

The Baby Bear Project

The Robin Hood Foundation continue to distribute all the baby wear we send to Durban in South Africa for underprivileged new moms and their babies. They're always very excited when our pallet arrives, and our packs of knitted goods and baby clothes are added to the bags they put together. The expression of grateful thanks on the mom's faces makes all the effort worthwhile.

The Baby Bear project and all those who contribute to this work are known by the Robin Hood Foundation as "Earth Angels". We hope to continue to do our best to live up to that beautiful reputation.

Thank you for your donations.
All are gratefully received.

"gogo" is the local name for grandmother. Many of the children and babies are orphaned so they're looked after by a "gogo".
